교과목 교육목표 (Course Objectives)	Students are expected to be familiar with the seminal models and be able to discuss political issues using the models learned in this course.
교과목개요 (Course Description)	This course is an introduction to positive political theory. This course examines political processes and political institutions from a rational choice perspective. In the first 3 weeks, I will introduce the social choice theory, the foundations of rational choice, and its limitations. The rest of the semester will emphasize introducing the basic game theory and some key formal models to simplify and analyze a broad class of political institutions and behavior. We will focus on rational choice literature on collective action, voting, elections, legislative bargaining, political agency, and bureaucracies.
